

Our Week In Pictures

In the dramatic play area the children have an opportunity to play out the many different roles in life. The children show love and care as they feed the babies, put them down for their naps and show affection to them.

This is one of our favorite toys in our classroom. The children enjoy using the people and taking them on bus rides, car rides and plane rides. We find the people going to places all around the classroom.

Each week the children make challah in preparation for the Shabbat day. After they shaped the dough into a challah together we went upstairs to the kitchen to place the challahs in the oven to bake. Here they are part of the process. They see the challahs go into the oven raw and then later come out baked, hot and ready to eat.

We meet many new friends when we are outside in the beautiful playground. Many of the older children are drawn to us wanting to play with us and show us around.

You have to work hard if you want to go down the slide. We have been practicing climbing the wall on the climbing equipment placing our feet on the knobs while reaching forward to hold on to the higher knob. Using full body coordination we can make it to the top. Watching the smiles on their faces you can see how proud they feel once they reach the top.

We work together in our kitchen talking about the different foods we have and what we want to eat. Talking and hearing words that are familiar and new to the children will help them in their developing language skills.

The children all enjoyed a yummy snack of apples dipped into honey. This is one of the sweet things we do on the holiday of Rosh Hashana. The children enjoy being together around the table feeling as part of a group.
